

PROCESS FOR OPERATING A QUENCH DEVICE IN AN OXYGENATE-TO-OLEFIN PRODUCTION UNIT

ABSTRACT

The present invention is a process for producing olefin(s) from oxygenates that is more effective than previously known processes at removing carbon dioxide from the effluent stream by operating a quench tower at a pH greater than 7.0.